

EMPLOYMENT AND EDUCATION

It is much easier to get a job if you have specific skills - have you had training?

If not, is this something you would like to think about? A Certificate III (in Australia) is a good starting point and often takes you into a job. Have a look at what is offered at your local TAFE.

You will need a resume to send or give to a potential employer. This should tell the employer why you would be suitable for the job they are advertising. Find out what the employer wants and make sure you put everything relevant in your resume. When you send off your resume make sure to attach a covering letter.

There are lots of examples on the internet. Look with your PuP therapist to find one that suits you.
